

Political economist and political sociologist. Full professor in the Dept. of Sociology and Anthropology, Ben Gurion University. Grinberg is the current President of the Israeli Sociology Society. He is the founding Chair of the Department (2006-2009), and former Director of the Humphrey Institute for Social Research (1998-2003). He taught as visiting professor at UCLA, UC Berkeley and Dartmouth College. His fields of specializations are Israeli politics, the history of the Zionist Labor Movement, Israel's political economy, the sociology of the Israeli- Palestinian Conflict and comparative sociology of resistance movements against inequality. Grinberg is author of several books: Split Corporatism in Israel (1991), The Histadrut Above all (1993), Introduction to Political Economy (1997), Imagined Peace, Discourse of War (2007), Politics and Violence in Israel/Palestine (2010) and Mo(ve)ments of Resistance (2014). He is also the editor of Contested Memory: Myth, Nation and Democracy (2000), and co-editor of Mizrachi Voices (2005).